

On November 13, the planet is coming together for 24 Hours of Reality and Live Earth: The World Is Watching, a global day of climate action and music hosted by former US Vice President and Climate Reality Chairman and Founder Al Gore. The program will invite the millions watching to speak up for a strong climate agreement in Paris through an online petition and showcase the progress happening in clean energy and other solutions all around the world.

This 24-hour-long event will be divided into eight three-hour segments. Each segment will highlight success stories, climate impacts, and activists and communities working together in one of eight regions critical to an agreement in Paris. The broadcast will start and end with segments broadcast live from Paris, the site of the upcoming UN climate talks.
